

Preface: In Celebration of Our Constitution

Kevin T. Smith

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarship.law.marquette.edu/mulr>

Part of the Law Commons

Repository Citation

Kevin T. Smith, Preface: In Celebration of Our Constitution, 70 Marq. L. Rev. 351 (1987).
Available at: <http://scholarship.law.marquette.edu/mulr/vol70/iss3/1>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at Marquette Law Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Marquette Law Review by an authorized administrator of Marquette Law Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact megan.obrien@marquette.edu.

PREFACE

IN CELEBRATION OF OUR CONSTITUTION

The Marquette Law Review presents this symposium issue in celebration of the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution. Our Nation has been under the guidance of this auspicious document for 200 years. It has been hailed and criticized. It has been interpreted by generations of judges, justices, law professors, legal scholars, and law students. The document has also been put to use by many people outside of the legal profession.

The Constitution has proven itself to be a document for all people. By this issue we celebrate its greatness, its history, and look to its continued success.

We have tried to present a number of varying views and interpretations. They in no way reflect the views of the Marquette Law Review nor Marquette University. We welcome responses to these articles and would gladly consider them for publication.

KEVIN T. SMITH
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
MARQUETTE LAW REVIEW
(1986-87)

