EDITORIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Thank You

The present staff of the REVIEW takes this opportunity, its last opportunity due to the custom of electing a new staff each year, to thank all of the readers of the REVIEW for the co-operation afforded the staff during its period of activity. Success has always been commensurate with the spirit of co-operation of the readers, which has been splendid. Thank you.

Success? Yes

The staff calls your attention to the fact that every periodical, especially a law review, is to be judged by the quality of the matter presented. For this reason the REVIEW takes great pleasure in being able to present in this issue, first "Modern Methods of Scientific Criminology in the Detection of Crime," by Doctor Edward L. Miloslavich the long awaited sequel to "Medical Testimony," 12 MARQUETTE LAW REVIEW 110, also by Dr. Miloslavich, who is one of the foremost authorities of the world on this subject.

Mr. J. G. Hardgrove, well known in legal circles throughout the state and nation, presents a subject of great interest to both lawyer and layman. Demonstrating vast powers as a student, he treats his highly controversial subject, the Eighteenth Amendment, as Brisbane has said, "this notable lawyer" is preëminently well qualified to do.

Mr. Claude D. Stout obliges the lawyers and laymen, as he says "especially married women" and "especially married men" with an exhaustive treatise on the status of women in which he outlines all of the extensive legislation in this field. His article will be invaluable to lawyers and of great informative value to laymen.
