WORKFORCE, ELDERLY
From the Editor (Post-65 Workers), by Alison McChrystal Barnes, Fall 1999, v. 1, no. 2, iii-v
Elder's Advisor is a practice-oriented publication providing substantive information on the legal, tax, health, welfare, and financial planning issues of the elderly. Our readership includes elder law attorneys, general practice attorneys, financial planners, CPAs, and other professionals whose practices focus on older clients. The journal encourages submission of manuscripts from experts in the field on all relevant topics, including health care planning, pensions, taxation, trusts and estates, Medicare, guardianship, and long-term care.

Elder's Advisor emphasizes quality and clarity of exposition. Reviewers consider the following criteria in assessing potential contributions: the value of the information to the journal's audience, the substantive contribution to the broadly defined field of elder law and retirement planning, and the overall quality of the manuscript. The decision to publish a given manuscript is made by the editors, relying on the recommendations of reviewers.

Submission of a manuscript clearly implies commitment to publish in Elder's Advisor. Previously published papers and papers under review by other journals are unacceptable except in very rare cases. Articles adapted from book-length works in progress will be considered for prior publication with attention given to the necessary copyright arrangements.

Manuscript Specifications. Manuscripts submitted for consideration generally should not exceed 30 type-written pages. All material should be double-spaced, on one side only of 8 1/2-by-11-inch white paper. Bibliographical references should be double-spaced and placed at the end of the text on a separate page headed “References.” Citations and footnotes should follow Bluebook style and should be placed at the end of the text on a separate page headed “Endnotes.” All references and citations must be complete. Improperly prepared manuscripts will be returned to the authors for re-preparation.

Within the article, use headings and subheadings to break up text and emphasize points; type them flush left. Number all pages of text. Each table or figure should be positioned on a separate page at the end of the article. The point of insertion of the table or figure should be indicated at the proper place in the text (e.g., “Table 2 about here”). Any artwork must be provided in camera-ready form or on disk; tabular material as well as the text, however, will be typeset.

Personal Information. Contributors should attach a cover sheet giving title, author's name as it should appear in print, author's title or position, firm or company affiliation, a brief biographical sketch, current mail and e-mail addresses, and telephone and fax numbers.

Routing and Handling Submissions. One clean copy of the manuscript should be submitted to the Editor at the address below.

Acceptance: Disk Specifications. Once an article has been formally accepted by the Editor-in-Chief, the author must provide a 3 1/2-inch disk that contains the article in a Microsoft Word 7.0 or any earlier version, WordPerfect 5.0, 5.1, 6.0, or ASCII file. Each disk must be labeled with program version, author name, and journal title. File name should be the author's last name.

Copies and Copyright. Copyright will be retained by the publisher, and articles are subject to editorial revision. There is no payment for articles; authors will receive 10 copies of the issue in which the article is published.

Manuscripts not accepted for publication will not be returned. Authors are advised to keep the original copies of their manuscripts for their files.

Manuscripts submitted for publication and inquiries about the suitability of a manuscript should be addressed to the Editor-in-Chief.

Publishers with books for review should direct a copy to the Editor. Books that do not receive separate review will be noted in a section “New and Noted.”
